PAYMENTS FOR THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE. THE ACTION OF CONTROLLER KELLY APPROVED BY THE COUNCIL OF POLITICAL REFORM-HIS PER-

SONAL VIEWS. The Council of Political Reform sent a delegation to visit Controller Kelly yesterday. The Council naintains that Corporation Counsel Whitney's conclusions that it is the duty of the Controller to pay to the Brooklyn Bridge trustees requisitions to the amount of $2,666,666 66, are erroneous. The delegation protested against the payment of any more money until the courts have adjudicated upon the matter. The Controller stated that he would not issue the bonds called for until the courts settled the matter. He was anxious to obtain a judicial decision as soon as possible, and was of opinion that the bridge trustees would take immediate action toward compelling the City of New-York to pay the money. In that case the matter would be decided in Later in the day Mr. Kelly explained more at length his position. He said that as Controller he would take whatever action the law should direct; as a citizen and a taxpayer, he was opposed to any further appropria-The bridge was intended, and would be used, wholly for the benefit of Brooklyn. New-York would be paying part of the cost of an enterprise which would result in more damage than benefit to the city. The bridge could not be completed, in all probability, within the sum appropriated, and no one was able yet to say what would be the ultimate cost. Besides, when completed, would not be adequate to the purposes for which it was intended. By the showing of the chief engineer himself, in his latest report, the bridge would only supbinnelf, in his latest report, the bridge would only support about ninety tons; or, say, one engine with two cars stached. If this were true, it would not furnish proper secommodations for the many persons who would wish to pass between Brooklyn and New-York, in the morning and evoning. If the persons who gathered at the ends of the bridge had to wait for the bussage of a single train back and forth before they could cross, it would be mach better for them to use the ferry-boats. Even if the citizens of Brooklyn did receive great benefits from the project, they were the only ones, and they should pay for it.

preject, they were the only ones, and they should pay for it.

A statement charging Controller Kelly with being actuated by political motives in his refusal to issue any more bonds for the Brooklyn Bridge was published yesterday, as coming from Colonel Thomas Carroll, of Brooklyn, one of the trustees of the bridge. Colonel Carroll, as reported, stated that the Controller was of posed to the "regular" Brooklyn Democratic Association, and was siming to suppliant its delegation to the next convention by men whom he could use to the next convention by men whom he could use to the next convention by men whom he could use to the next convention by men whom he could use the first of the suspended men were found about the bridge approaches yesterday. The seventy-five cable workers were still at work. Those who had been at work on the approaches are the men that have been suspended. They seem to feel encouraged to expect work in a week's time. Some said they "didn't mind a week" time. Some said they "didn't mind a week—they rather enjoyed it," but would not wait longer than that time before seeking other work. Most of the workmen on the Brooklyn side were old hands, while those discharged from this side of the river are said to have had less experience at the work. The men were inclined to lay their suspension to Controller Kelly's action entirely.

H. J. MONTAGUE'S DEATH.

THE BODY ON ITS WAY EAST-PREPARATIONS FOR THE FUNERAL.

Lester Wallack, who was yachting on the Bound, and learned of H. J. Montague's death on Monday, came to the city yesterday. He was joined at his theatre by Theodore Moss, W. R. Floyd and Mr. Beckett. Louis Simon, named in the will as an executor, and Charles A. Stevenson were present, Arthur Sawall, another executor, and Mr. Boucleault are expected to arrive in the city to-day, and to attend a meeting of the Lambs," the social club of which Mr. Montague was president. This meeting will be held at noon, and will nsider the arrangements for the funeral.

It is said to have been Mr. Montague's desire to be buried in England. On Monday his mother, who is an invalid living in the suburbs of London, was requested to make known her wishes concerning the place of burial. Yesterday Mr. Wallack received a cable dispatch from her, leaving the disposal of his remains en-tirely to his discretion. Some of Mr. Montague's friends dvise burial here, but this will be decided at the meeting to-day. If the remains should be sent to England, e service will be held over them here, probably at the Church of the Transfiguration (the "Little Church nd the Corner"), where Mr. Montague was au attendant. Mr. Montague's friends wish it understood tendant. Mr. Montague's friends wish it diaderstood that the services will be extremely simple. Mr. Montague was a Mason, and the order may take some part in the services. A dispatch fron San Francisco states that his remains left the Pacific coast at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, in charge of the "Diplomacy" company, which is proceeding, according to previous agreement, to Chicago. Louis Simon and Arthur Sewall probably will go to Chicago to receive the remains and bring them to this city, arriving, possibly, next Monday. At the autopsy, held in San Francisco, the physicians found signs of incipient consumption.

held in Sao Francisco, the physicians found signs of inelpient consumption.
It is said that only the male members of the "Diplomacy" company have left San Francisco. Miss Maude Granger, who played the part of Dora, and Miss JeffreysLewis, the Countees Zicka, remain behind. Miss Granger was very fil before starting for California. A dispatch was received yesterday stating that she was again very ill and unable to make the journey to Chi cago. It is probable that Miss Jeffreys-Lewis remained behind on account of Miss Granger's sickness.

RAILROAD DIN IN SIXTH AVENUE. NO OFFER MADE FOR MR. SCHROEDER'S INVENTION-

EFFORTS TO REDUCE THE NOISE.

statement that the Metropolitan Elevated Railroad Company had made an offer for an invention of F. W. Schroeder, the aeronaut, was deuled yesterday at the company's office. John Baird, the vice-president, said yesterday: "The company has made no trial of Mr. Schroeder's invention, and certainly would make no efforts to buy it until satisfied that it would accomplish the results claimed for it by the inventor. I know very little about the merits of the plau, for the reason that we have not tested it by actual use. Mr. Schroeder has been running in here frequently, urging upon the company the use of his patent, and by his persistence, in fact, has caused us a great deal of annoyance. More to be rid of him than for any other reason the officers asked him to say at what price he would fur the officers asked him to say at what price he would furnish his plan. But they have made no offer for the purchase of the invention."

"New plans for reducing the noise of the trains are suggested to us almost daily," continued Mr. Baird, "and we are testing them constantly. We find, however, that no test is sufficient except upon the main line, where it is subjected to the full speed of the train. We have made some experiments at the yard at Fiftyninib-st, which have promised there to effect cood results; when we have tested the same schemes on sections of the line in actual operation they have accomplished no appreciable benefits. We expect to secure a very great reduction in the noise of the moving trains. We add experiment to experiment and carefully warch the result of each, and finally we shall hit upon some plan or combination of plans that will achieve the desired result."

BENJAMIN NOYES IN STATE PRISON. BROKEN DOWN IN MIND AND BODY-EFFORTS FOR A RESPITE UNSUCCESSFUL.

Benjamin Noyes, the convicted president of the National Capitol Lafe Insurance Company, who was sen-tenced to the State Prison at Treaton for eighteen months, was taken there yesterday, the reprieve of thirty days, granted by Governor McClellan, having expired. His daughter on Monday went to Trenton with a petition signed by a large number of arominent citizens, asking Governor McCiellan for a still further respite, but without success. At 9 a. m. yest-rday, Sheriff Harrison' out success. At 9 a. m. yesterday, Sheriff Harrison's private carriage was drive up to the warden's office of the County Juli, and soon afterward Mr. Noyes, one of his sons and the sheriff came out of the jail, took seats in the carriage and were driven to the Broad-st, depot and fransferred to the 9:35 train on the Bound Brook line for Trenton. At the depot the prisoner was joined by his wife and daughter, his other son and his private secretary. A large number of friends were in waiting to bid him good-bye. Mr. Noyes was very much broken down, and was so feeble that he had to be supported by his son and the sheriff. He tottered as he walked, and his mind was much affected. When he attempted to talk he uttered incoherent senences. Dr. C. M. Zoh, ms physician, will also go to Trenton to consult with the physicians of the State Prison shout his patient. It is thought Noyes will not live long under imprisonment, and that if he does live he will become a hopeless lunstic.

CUSTOM HOUSE INVESTIGATIONS.

RUMORED CHANGES IN CONSEQUENCE-IRREGULARI-TIES STATED TO HAVE BEEN FOUND.

It was rumored yesterday that several important changes had been made in the Custom House, and that these were to take effect to-morrow. Collector Merritt stated that he had not yet given the subject of removals any consideration. The only change to be de at present was the filling of a vacancy as entry clerk, by promotion, and a new appointment to the sub clerk, by promotion, and a new appointment to the sub-ordinate clerkship. It is generally believed that there will be some important chances on September 1 for cause, one of the officers to be affected being a deputy co lector.

General Curtis is engaged in several important investi-gations in the Custom House and Appraiser's Depart-ment, where gross neglect of duty has been alloged. It has been charged that there have been irregularities in weighing cigars and in sampling other importations. It is runnored that in one line of importations giaring ir-regularities have been discovered and are being investi-gated, the result to be laid before Secretary Sherman on his return to the city on Friday.

CHARGED WITH A BOLD ROBBERY.

THE LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE'S WORK. SOME OFINIONS OF WILLIAM R. MUNDY'S LEADER-SHIP.

The application for the arrest of Excise Commissioners Morrison and Merkle, which, it has been reported, the Law and Order League had made through William H. Mundy, has not yet met a successful issue. The Commissioners had not received on Saturday any intimation of their arrest. Dr. Merkle said concerning the rumor that they did not fear arrest on the ground on which Mr. Mundy is said to have asked for it, nor on any other. They had done their duty and intended so to do to the best of their ability, and that consequently they féared no arrest.

It was said Saturday that Mundy, having made peace with the liquor dealers, was in reality now working for them as against the Excise Commissioners. The Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby said: "I know nothing, good or bad, about Mr. Mundy and his reported schemes. I believe the people of New-York are now fully aware of the aims of our society, and that it is carefully and judiciously managed. Nothing that Mr. Mundy and people like him can do will injure our society. I regard him merely as a fanatic and a speculator in sensations. He has no connection whatever with our society, which wants nothing to do with a man who smells of sensationalism. He has made to us repeated applications for employment, which always bave been declined. There are two ways to effect reforms: one to make a splurge and bluster as Mr. Mundy tries to do-to declare the Excise Commissioners a pair of scamps and scallawars who ought to be in dicted; the other is the method followed by our society Quietly and firmly we urge the enforcement of the law. "I have been wonderfully impressed," continued Dr ing of Commissioner Morrison, as the presiding officer of the board, during the hearings we had before it. I was prejudiced, too, against the Commissioners by the freedom with which they had granted licenses to hotels, but I have found them careful, impartial and reasonable men. To them we present our reasonable arguments, and expect that they will see and recognize the correctness of our position. I have no doubt that the Commissioners are legally authorized to issue beer licenses. And I have no objections to the drinking of beer; I would not care how many beer saloons there might be. Judges and police justices agree that nearly all crime is due to the use of liquor. The testimony on this point is so clear and unanimous that I am surprised that the people do not admit the fact, and unite with our society. There has been however a great change in public sentiment within a few years. Mr. Mundy is a theorist, a prohibitionist. I have no sympathy with the cause of prohibition; I am an advo-cale of true temperance. I believe that the use of a mild Mr. Mandy is a theorist, a prohibitionist. I have no sympathy with the cause of prohibition; I am an advocate of true temperance. I believe that the use of a mild stimulant, with, let us say, 5 to 10 per cent of alcohol, is beneficial to the digestion, and especially in men advanced in years. The swiggers and swillers of beer and light wines will be very likely to spoil their digestions, and especially in men advanced in years. The swiggers and swillers of beer and light wines will be very likely to spoil their digestions, and so would, perhaps, the intemperate drinkers of tea and coffee. Prohibition, even if successful in Malue—and reports from there are very conflicting—would never do for this great city. There the people are all Yankees, but here a great proportion of our population is composed of Germaus and Irish. The circumstances of the two cases are entirely different. In the cases which we have brought before the Board of Excise we expect a decision in our favor. The Commissioners must, we think, revoke the Hoenses of those who, bolding hotel licenses, have not in their places the slightest qualification of a hotel. The Commissioners as reasonable men, must see that these licenses have been granted lilegally."

D. J. Whitney, counsel for the Society for the Prevention of Crime, said: "I make it a point to say nothing about a man of whom I can say no good. Mr. Mandy has begged to be employed by our society, and has offered us his services at $10 a week. We do not want them at any price. He is a faustic and has never accomplished anything. There is not a police justice in this city who, in my opinion, will grant his application for the arrest of the Commissioners. I know something about the Excise law, and I do not believe he has a ghost of a chance of success. Mundy, Mundy—he is nothing. The Law and Order League has no connection, I think, with the Aliany society of the same name. The society bere is one of mulal admiration, and is—William H. Mundy."

"Our society." Mr. Whitney added, "has just issued a

A KENTUCKY BOY'S DEPRAVITY. STEALING HIS OLD FATHER'S MONEY AND SQUAN-

DERING IT IN A BOWERY CONCERT-SALOON-HE SPENDS $150 IN A NIGHT FOR CIDER.

A Kentucky boy of sixteen had an adventurous career abruptly interrupted yesterday morning by Officer Hogan. The boy, whose name is John Shaw, of Covington, Ky., was seen to come out of a restaurant at No. 30 Bowery, grossly intoxicated, in company with two disorderly women. Officer Hogan learned that the three had lunched in the restaurant, and that Shaw tendered a $50 bill in payment. Upon being told by the proprietor that he could not change the bill, one of the vomen picked it up and put it in her bosom, saying, " I'll pay for the breakfast, and change the bill afterwards." The officer started in pursuit, and saw the three get on a Desbrosses-st, ferry car He overtook the car, and asked the women if they had any money belonging to the boy. One replied by producing the $50 bill. Hogan on each side in tow and two astern. At then took the three to the Fourteenth Precinct 6 a. m., when off East Sixtieth-st., the steamboat Station. Here the girls gave their names as Providence hove in sight and sounded her Jane Lewis and Pauline Reilley. The boy said he was on his way to Europe. When asked if he had any money, he drew from his pocket $1,400 m $50 bills. The prisoners were then taken to the Tombs Police Court, where the two girls were discharged, and young Shaw was held, to enable Superintendent Walling to communicate with the boy's father.

To a TRIBUNE reporter last night the boy told his story. He is sixteen years old, short and slender for story. He is sixteen years old, short and sleader for his age, and his sunburnt face and timid air give him the appearance of a farm youth. He talks like a country boy, and told his story with no little embarrasement. He said: "My father's name is William H. Shaw, and he, with my mother and two sisters, lives in Covington. My father was a mattrass-maker, but as he is saxy-five years old, he had given up work. He had saved about $2,000, of which I took all except $100 before I left home. For a year I have worked in a glass factory and in a tin shop. I lost my place and could get nothing to do, and for this reason my parents called me lazy, abused me, and tried to drive me from home. A week ago Saturday my father ordeced me to leave the house and not to return, saying that he would give me $100 to start in life. My people went out during the day. I took every cent of money in the house, $1,500 in all, and crossed the river that night to Cincinnati. There I stayed until Monday night, and then concluded to Beltast. Ireland, where I have relatives. I arrived in New-York on Tuesday night, I hought a ring and scarf-pio, and went to Brighton Beach and Staten Island. On Monday veening I went to a variety concert saloon in the Bowery. Here I met the two girls, Lewis and Reilley, and when I asked them to drink they called for wine. I was charged $5 a bottle for what was only champagne cider. We sat in the saloon until 5 o'clock yesterday morning, when I had paid $150 for eider since! went in there. The girls then started to take me home and on the way we were arrested." his age, and his sunburnt face and timid air give him arrested."

Young Shaw said it was not material with him whether he went home or not. He did not show any outward signs of regret for his conduct. He said he had not been to a theatre during his stay in the city, but had visited concert salcone, troated everybody and felt like a young nabob who could well afford a little extravagance.

TROUBLE IN A BONDED LUMBER YARD. Business at the lumber yard of R. W. Adams & Co., at the foot of Twenty-sixth-st., Brooklyn, has been stopped by order of the Treasury Department until an inventory of the lumber can be made. The rules of the Custom House require that all dutiable lumber shall be placed in a bonded inclosure. It appears that only a small portion of the lumber received at this yard has been so inclosed. The firm, it is said, has been advised of the illegality of this method, but no efforts have been made by the proper officers to compel efforts have been made by the proper officers to compel the storing of the lumber in an inclosure. On the contrary, permits to load and unload lumber on the dock, which should have been placed in bond, have been granted by order of Custom House officials. The statement of the lumber expert that a million feet of lumber are missing is said to be untrustworthy. Both the Government storekeeper, Edward H. Fletcher, and the Inspector of Customs, C. F. Wayer, say that any attempt to throw bonded lumber on the market without paying the duty would be at once detected, and that it would be utterly impossible for R. W. Adams & Co. to sell one million feet without their knowledge.

THE ARRESTED BROOKLYN BURGLARS.

The four burglars arrested by the police of the Ninth Sub-Precinct, Brooklyn, in the handsome house which they occupied at Patchen-ave, and Jeffer son-st., will be arraigned to-day for examination before Justice Semier, in the Sixth District Court. They now occupy separate cells in the Raymond Street Jail. The redwhiskered man, called "John Doe," who refused to say anything about himself, has not yet been identified from this city to Brooklyn to see if "Doe" could be identified as Peter Cody, who escaped from the prison connected with the Yorkville Police Court about two years ago. Cody was arrested on a charge of burgiary. While in the prison yard he made a dash for liberty, shooting an officer and firing at three other persons who attempted to recapture him. The officers, however, failed to identify "Doe." Yesterday Detective Welsh and two other officers went ner selzed it and ran. Detective Ellis, of the Teuth doner seized it and ran. Detective Ellis, of the Tenta Precinat Station House, gave chase. The thief ran hrough Bayard-st. to Mulberry-st., and entered an alley near Canal-st. The detective flusily overhauled the fugitive, but the latter, emboldened by the sympathizing growd that had gathered, defied the officer. A detective from the Fourteenth Precinet appeared at this juncture, and the two, after much difficulty, arrested the man. At the station house the prisoner gave his name as Michaei McCarthy, and stated that he was one of the messengers of the House of Representatives at Washington. He desied all knowledge of the crime, and stated that he had ust arrived in New-York to spend his vacation.

DR. C. B. CURRIER'S DISAPPEARANCE. HE LEAVES HIS WIFE ALMOST DESTITUTE AND IS REPORTED TO HAVE SAILED FOR EUROPE WITH MRS. PHELPS - THE GRIEF-STRICKEN WIFE'S STORY.

Dr. Christopher B. Currier, a homœopathic physician, recently of No. 972 Lexington-ave., has abandoned his wife, and it is reported has sailed for Europe in company with Mrs. Phelps, wife of John T. Phelps. Dr. Currier, about four years ago, removed to this city from Middlebury, Vt., and established himself at Lexington-ave, and Seventy-first-st. His practice is said to have been, from the first, large and lugrative. He paid $1,600 for the house which he has occupied, and he kept a private carriage. Afterward he opened a pharmacy on Sixth-ave., near Fifty-sixth-st., but the enterprise proving unprofitable, it was abandoned. It is said now that from losses made in this venture, and in consequence of lavish expenditure and inattention to his practice, he has been for some months seriously embarrassed, and that sn attachment has been placed re cently upon some of his property.

On the opposite side of Seventy-first-st., and only a few doors west from Lexington-ave., lived until last Spring John T. Phelps, with his faw ily, consisting of a wife and two daughters. Mrs. Phelps, whose maiden name was Emily Woodward, is said to be a tall, fine-looking wo-She is now about thirty-three years old and has been married fourteen or fifteen years, her older daughter being about twelve years old. Somewhat more that a year ago Mr. Woodward, father of Mrs. Phelps, died, leaving to her as his only heir the house in which they were then living and property estimated to be worth nearly $100, 000. About the same time Mr. Phelps, who had been engaged in the comb business on Broadway, senior partner of the firm of Phelps & Everdel, failed in come quence, it is said, of losses caused by fire a short time recyting.

quence, it is said, of losses caused by fire a short time previous.

Dr. Currier became the attending physician to the Phelips ramily, and is charged with having been unduly intimate with Mrs. Phelips. The discovery last March of this intimacy resulted in the breaking up of the family, Mrs. Phelips, taking with her the two children, left the city. She is said to have been living since that time at Stamford, Conn., but to have been an occasional visitor to this city. For the last month or two she has been making preparations for a European tour, and it is said that, in company with Dr. Currier, she sailed a week ago to-day for England. That Dr. Currier sailed on Wednesday of last week there is no doubt, as letters from him to that effect have been received. It is said that he leaves some debts unpaid, and that he carried with him money belonging to his wife. He collected many of his bills, and left others with a collector, with instructions to pay the proceeds to a professional friend.

Mrs. Currier appears to be nearly frantic with grief.

Mrs. Currier appears to be nearly frantic with grief, but she clings foundly to the thought of her husbaud's idedity and repeis any suspicion that he has abandoned her. She is a tall, graceful woman, with regular features and large dark eyes. She is evidently a woman of strong feeling and great netwous excitability. With voice broken with sobs she told last night the story of her wrongs and her last parting with Dr. Currier. "We returned a week ago Thursday from Vermont," she said, "where we went the week previous. The doctor was especially kind and attentive to me all the time we were gone—more as he used to be. I remember when we got home he said how glad he was to be here, and proposed that we should not go away again, except day at a time. The next morning he unpacked trunks and brought the clothing upstairs to day at a time. The next morning he ubpacked my trunks and brought the clothing upstairs to my room. On! he was about the house nearly all day, and proposed that on Sunday we should go down to Coney Island. Early in the afternoon he received a dispatch from Vermont requiring his attendance on a patient. I know the people and was only disappointed that he had to go away. I packed his satched as I had always been in the habit of doing; I forgot nothing—not even the little ribbon with which he used to tie up at night his long flowing beard. He left on the Montreal express at 4 p. m. on Saturday, telling me that he should return Monday night or certainly Toesday morning. I told him that I dreaded parling with him, but he rallied me and told me that he would be back Tuesday surely. He waited even after the train had begun to move and gave md a farewell kiss. Monday night I was restless and nervous and sat down and wrote a letter for him when he returned. Tuesday morning he did not come. It was raining very hard, and, thinking that delayed him, I went down to my breakfast. In a tew minutes the postman left three letters, one of which I saw instantly was in his handwriting. It was postmarked at the Grand Union Hotel, and was dated the evening before. In the said that he was about to leare me, and that the separation must be final. Oh'l it was terrible! If he had left me in anger I would not care so much if he wished to live apart from me. But he left me so kindly and lovingly—me a would not care so much if he wished to live apart frome. But he left me so kindly and lovingly-me woman, to battle alone with the world?"

RUN DOWN BY A STEAMER.

A SCOW UPSET AND A WHOLE FAMILY THROWN INTO THE WATER-THE PARENTS ESCAPE, BUT THE THREE CHILDREN ARE DROWNED.

On the slippery bottom of an upturned scow noored at the foot of East Ninety-ninth-st., last evening was a mournful group. A police officer and two scow captains were watching over the dead bodies of the three children of Michael Rath, who were drowned by the upsetting of a scow in the East River yesterday morning. The dead children lay side by side on a pile of sail cloth. covered with a deck tarpauling. The elder of the two captains then gave the following account of the acci-

the tax, around, and loaded as it was to the water's edge with 450 tons of stone, the port paddle-wheel of the steamboat passed over the stern and upset the scow in an instant. Rath and his family were all in the cabin at the time, but the man evidently made a rush for the deeg when the steamboat struck the scow, for after the Providence had passed without any beed to the damage
she had done, the captain of the Chief saw Rath floating a hundred yards astern of his uptarned craft. The strong flood-tide prevented him from going to the rescue. The man, however, was picked up by rescue. The man, however, was picked up by the tug Dry Spring, that was near at hand.
The tug then steamed for the up-turned scow and as there was nothing to which a hawser could be fastened, the scow was pushed up stream. At last to make a fastening for a hawser, one of the deek hands jumped on board the scow and becan to cut a hole in the bottom with an axe. As he chopped he heard cries underneath the planks, and breaking a hole through saw the face of Mrs. Rath, white with fear and anxiety. She was undurf.
Although the space between the water and the bottom of the boat was scarcely a foot, no trace of the children was found.

The acow was towed to the foot of Ninety-niuth-st. the starboard to allow the steamer to pass, but the flood-

The seew was towed to the foot of Ninety-ninth-st. The unhappy father and mother were then induced to go on board one of the other seews. A number of men scarched for the children. At 1 p. m. the body of the eldest, John, a boy of six, was found floating in the cabin near the aperture through which his mother tead been resented. Another hole was cut in the bottom near the centre of the seew, and the bodies of the two little girs, Maggle and Ellen, were discovered. The inquests will be hield to-day. These children were the last of a family of five, two others having died recently of sickness.

SEIZURE OF STOLEN SUGAR. DISCOVERY OF A NEW METHOD OF DEFRAUDING IMPORTERS AND THE GOVERNMENT. An important seizure of over two tons of sugar was made yesterday, which, it is believed, will check a system of fraud and theft that been carried ou for a long time. A week ago Inspector Donohtte discovered a gang of men bagging sugar on the bark Chase. At the side of the bark, which was at the foot of Joralemon-st., was a float, filled with bags and barrels of stolen sugar. The thieves attempted to make their escape, but were arrested by the Brooklyn po lice, and the sugar was held as evidence against them. The cargo of sugar on the bark Chase was consigned to Moses Taylor & Co., and as the thieves had a cooper with them, it is presumed that, acting in collusion with some of the crew, they intended to steal a small quantity of sugar from each hogshead and to run it ever to this city. The Custom House officers state that sugar junkmen in this city and in Brooklyn deal in the stelen sugars, paying $6 a bag or 4 cents a pound for it, and scling it to refiners for from 5 to 6 cents a pound; these prices are from 1 to 2 cents below regular market quotations. The five thieves arrested by the Brooklyn police were discharged on Monday, and before daylight yesterday morning Inspector Donohue captured the sugar from them and brought it to the seizure room. The average quality is that of good refining sugar. lice, and the sugar was held as evidence against ed refining sugar.

CHARGED WITH FOUL CRIMES

Justice Kilbreth, in the Fifty-seventh Street Police Court yesterday, heard a case which, he said, was the most outrageous he had ever been compelled to sit in judgment upon. A middle-aged Hebrew, August Engler, a real estate agent, at No. 131 Fourth-ave., was charged with inveigling young girls into his office and charged with inveiging young girls into his office and taking improper liberties with them. The daughter of Georgo L Du Lang, of No. 354 Second-ave, age tweive, and a number of her little playmates were found to have been entired into Engler's pace. A warrant for Engler's arrest was obtained on Monday, but before it rould be secured Engler was caught by Du Lang and William Glover and soundly beaten. Yesterday the two men were held in $100 ball to keep the pence. Engler was released on ball. He said he was innocent and that his accusers were trying to blackmall him. The evidence, however, fully justified the magistrate's assection of the foulness of the case.
